B130

B130 is a 39.62-metre transoceanic motor yacht currently under construction by Bering Yachts. Designed for long-range autonomous cruising, she is built to operate confidently in remote regions and across extended ocean passages. Powered by twin MAN D2862LE427 diesel engines (900 hp each), B130 reaches a top speed of approximately 14 knots and cruises efficiently at around 10 knots. At economical speed, her range extends to approximately 4,500 nautical miles, making her well suited for transatlantic voyages.

Accommodation is arranged for up to 12 guests across six staterooms. The full-beam master suite is located on the upper deck, offering a level of space and comfort typically found on significantly larger yachts. Guest accommodation can be configured to suit a variety of operational profiles, from private cruising to charter use, depending on owner preferences. Crew quarters for up to nine are arranged across five cabins with dedicated service areas, ensuring a professional level of service and efficient operation during extended journeys.

The main saloon integrates lounge and dining areas into an open-plan layout with direct access to the exterior decks. Deck architecture is designed for ease of movement, clear zoning, and flexible use of space across different onboard scenarios.

Purpose-built for exploration, B130 combines long-range capability, robust engineering, and generous internal volume - offering a balanced platform for owners seeking independence, reliability, and extended ocean cruising capability.
