AKIKO

AKIKO is an award-winning Alloy Yachts explorer yacht that combines proven expedition capability, exceptional New Zealand craftsmanship and the comfort of a modern long-range cruising yacht. Originally launched as VVS1 in 2007 and extensively upgraded throughout her life, she represents a rare opportunity to acquire a genuinely capable expedition platform in turnkey condition, without the need for a major refit.

Designed by Gregory Marshall, AKIKO was conceived as a true explorer yacht, built for extended autonomous cruising in remote regions of the world. Her all-aluminium construction, full-displacement hull and long-range cruising credentials are complemented by robust engineering systems developed to support serious offshore operation while maintaining a high level of onboard comfort.

A defining part of AKIKO's appeal is her distinguished history and industry recognition. Originally delivered as VVS1, she earned multiple awards and widespread acclaim not only for the quality of her construction but also for successfully demonstrating that an expedition yacht could combine genuine long-range capability, reliability and luxury accommodation within a highly practical platform.

The yacht has benefited from a substantial programme of upgrades and modernisation throughout her life. A major refit was completed in 2023, followed by further technical and cosmetic improvements in 2025. These works encompassed both guest areas and engineering systems, ensuring that AKIKO is presented to the market in excellent condition and fully prepared for immediate cruising.

Guest accommodation is arranged in spacious cabins designed for comfortable long-term living aboard, while the interior successfully balances the practicality expected of an expedition yacht with the refinement and comfort associated with modern luxury cruising vessels. Generous living spaces, thoughtful storage solutions and a welcoming atmosphere make the yacht equally suited to extended private ownership, family cruising and global exploration.

Combining award-winning pedigree, proven expedition credentials, Alloy Yachts build quality and an extensive refit history, AKIKO stands out as one of the most compelling explorer yachts available in her size range, offering owners the confidence to cruise far beyond traditional yachting destinations in complete comfort.
